How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Class C shares of the Fund returned 7.89% (unadjusted for sales charges) for the period ended September 30, 2025. The Fund's broad-based index, the Russell 1000® Index, returned 17.75% for the same period, while the Fund's additional, more narrowly based index, the Russell 1000® Value Index, returned 9.44%.

Stock selection contributed to the Fund's performance relative to the Russell 1000® Value Index, while sector allocations detracted. We produced the strongest results in financials, where Synchrony Financial (2.6%) was the leading contributor thanks to better-than-expected earnings. Holdings in State Street Corp. (2.6%) and Discover Financial Services* helped performance, as well. The Fund further benefited from stock selection in communication services, where shares of Fox Corp. (3.6%) rallied on the strength of its strong affiliate fees and rising revenues. Warner Bros. Discovery, Inc. (2.4%), which gained significantly late in the period on expectations that the company would be taken over, also aided results. Overweight positions in Meta Platforms, Inc. (0.6%) and Google parent Alphabet, Inc. (3.6%), both of which participated in the rally in mega-cap, technology-related stocks, were additional contributors of note. Positioning in the consumer discretionary sector also added value due in large part to holdings in Boyd Gaming Corp. (2.6%) and the luxury brand company Tapestry, Inc. (0.3%).

On the other hand, the Fund's holdings in information technology lagged the broader sector by a wide margin. Cognizant Technology Solutions, Inc. (4.6%), which was seen as being a potential victim of the growth in artificial intelligence, was a notable laggard. We were also hurt by having an average overweight in Apple, Inc.,* as the stock declined in the first half of the period on concerns about weaker sales growth in China. Consumer staples was another area of underperformance, largely as a result of downturns in spirits producers and packaged food companies. Both categories trailed the sector and the broader market on worries about slowing sales. Positioning in energy also hurt results, primarily due to a downturn in the pipeline company ONEOK, Inc. (2.3%).

With respect to sector allocation, the majority of the shortfall came from an underweight in financials and an overweight in healthcare. An overweight in the outperforming communication services sector contributed positively.

Percentages in parentheses are based on the Fund's net assets as of September 30, 2025.

Fund Performance

Cumulative Growth of an Assumed $10,000 Investment

Russell 1000[®] Index measures the performance of the large-cap segment of the US equity universe. It is a subset of the Russell 3000[®] Index and includes approximately 1,000 of the largest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership. The Russell 1000 represents approximately 93% of the US market. The Russell 1000[®] Index is constructed to provide a comprehensive and unbiased barometer for the large-cap segment and is completely reconstituted annually to ensure new and growing equities are included.

The Russell 1000[®] Index is a required broad-based index that represents the fund's overall equity market.

Russell 1000[®] Value Index measures the performance of the large-cap value segment of the US equity universe. It includes those Russell 1000 companies with relatively lower price-to-book ratios, lower I/B/E/S forecast medium term (2 year) growth and lower sales per share historical growth (5 years). The Russell 1000[®] Value Index is constructed to provide a comprehensive and unbiased barometer for the large-cap value segment. The index is completely reconstituted annually to ensure new and growing equities are included and that the represented companies continue to reflect value characteristics.

The Russell 1000[®] Value Index is a more narrowly based index that reflects the market sector in which the fund invests.

Index returns do not reflect any fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly into an index.

Householding

In order to reduce the amount of mail you receive and to help reduce expenses, we generally send a single copy of any shareholder report and prospectus to each household. If you do not want the mailing of these documents to be combined with those for other members of your household, please contact your financial representative or call DWS toll free at (800) 728-3337.

Stocks may decline in value. The Fund will be managed using the CROCI[®] Investment Process, which is based on portfolio management's belief that, over time, stocks which display more favorable financial metrics (for example, the CROCI[®] Economic P/E Ratio) as generated by this process may outperform stocks which display less favorable metrics. This premise may not prove to be correct and prospective investors should evaluate this assumption prior to investing in the Fund. The Fund may lend securities to approved institutions. Please read the prospectus for details.

This report must be preceded or accompanied by a prospectus. We advise you to consider the Fund's objectives, risks, charges, and expenses carefully before investing.
