Class A	$77	0.75%

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Class A shares of the Fund returned 5.41% (unadjusted for sales charges) for the period ended August 31, 2025. The Fund's broad-based indices, the MSCI ACWI All Cap Index and the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index, returned 15.55% and 3.47%, respectively for the same period, while the Fund's additional, more narrowly based index, the S&P Target Risk Conservative Index, returned 7.40%.

The Fund's allocation to alternative assets was the primary reason for the shortfall in performance versus the S&P Target Risk Conservative Index. We hold an alternatives portfolio consisting of infrastructure stocks, global real estate investment trusts (REITs), a commodity portfolio, and natural resources stocks. This segment of the Fund lagged the S&P Target Risk Conservative Index, which has no allocation to alternative assets. Weakness in REITs, which finished with a negative return at a time in which investors demonstrated a preference for faster growing and/or higher-risk stocks, was the primary reason for the underperformance in alternatives. On the other hand, infrastructure stocks performed very well and made a strong contribution to overall Fund performance. The sector posted a sizable gain due in part to expectations for increased infrastructure spending in Europe.

The underperformance of the underlying U.S. equity and emerging-market equity funds compared to their respective categories was an additional factor weighing on performance. A position in U.S. small caps, which lagged due to uncertainty about U.S. economic growth and the Trump administration's trade policy, also detracted.

On the positive side, the Fund benefited from its overweight in equities given stocks' strong outperformance relative to bonds.

Positioning in the fixed-income portfolio further contributed. We maintained overweights in more credit-oriented sectors such as dollar-denominated and local-currency emerging-market bonds, U.S. high yield, and U.S. investment-grade corporates, while holding an underweight in core bonds. Higher-yielding market segments generally outperformed, reflecting investors' hearty appetite for risk. The Fund used derivatives during the course of the period to adjust its positioning and take advantage of tactical opportunities. The use of derivatives was a net detractor.

Fund Performance

Cumulative Growth of an Assumed $10,000 Investment

(Adjusted for Maximum Sales Charge)

Yearly periods ended August 31

The Fund's growth of an assumed $10,000 investment is adjusted for the maximum sales charge of 5.75%. This results in a net initial investment of $9,425.

MSCI ACWI All Cap Index captures large, mid, small and micro-cap representation across Developed Markets countries and large, mid and small cap representation across Emerging Markets countries. The index is comprehensive, covering approximately 99% of the global equity investment opportunity set.

Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index is a flagship measure of global investment grade debt from local currency markets. This multi-currency benchmark includes treasury, government-related, corporate and securitized fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

The MSCI ACWI All Cap Index and the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index are required broad-based indices that represent the Fund's overall equity and debt markets, respectively.

S&P Target Risk Conservative Index is designed to measure the performance of conservative stock-bond allocations to fixed income while seeking to produce a current income stream and avoid excessive volatility of returns. Equities are included to protect long-term purchasing power.

The S&P Target Risk Conservative Index is a more narrowly based index that reflects the market sector in which the fund invests.

Index returns do not reflect any fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly into an index.

Although allocation among different asset categories generally limits risk, fund management may favor an asset category that underperforms other assets or markets as a whole. Stocks may decline in value. Bond investments are subject to interest-rate, credit, liquidity, and market risks to varying degrees. When interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall. Credit risk refers to the ability of an issuer to make timely payments of principal and interest. Investing in foreign securities presents certain risks, such as currency fluctuations, political and economic changes, and market risks. Investing in derivatives entails special risks relating to liquidity, leverage and credit that may reduce returns and/or increase volatility. The Fund's performance is directly related to the performance of the underlying portfolios or funds. In addition, the Fund indirectly pays a portion of the expenses incurred by the underlying portfolios or funds. The underlying funds could expose the Fund to risks related to investing in inflation-indexed bonds, real estate securities, infrastructure related companies, commodities, frontier markets, micro-cap companies and the CROCI investment process. Please read the prospectus for details.
