How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Class C shares of the Fund returned -1.23% (unadjusted for sales charges) for the period ended December 31, 2025. The Fund's broad-based index, the S&P 500[®] Index, returned 17.88% for the same period, while the Fund's additional, more narrowly based index, the FTSE NAREIT All Equity REITs Index, returned 2.27%.

Individual stock selection and broader sector allocations each played a role in the Fund's underperformance relative to the FTSE NAREIT All Equity REITs Index.

With respect to the former, the Fund's holdings lagged the corresponding index components by the widest margin in the net lease category. The shortfall was largely a result of weakness in Essential Properties Real Estate Trust, Inc. (2.3%) and Vinci Properties, Inc.* The Fund also underperformed in specialty REITs, where Iron Mountain, Inc.* was the largest detractor, and in apartments, where overweights in Avalon Bay Communities, Inc.* and Independence Realty Trust, Inc.* hurt results.

On the positive side, the Fund outperformed in the lab/outpatient category thanks to an overweight in Healthcare Realty Trust, Inc. (0.9%) and a zero weighting in Alexandria Real Estate Equities, Inc., one of the worst performing stocks in the FTSE NAREIT All Equity REITs Index in 2025. The industrials category was a further area of strength, primarily due to zero weightings or underweights in several stocks that lagged. Stock selection in manufactured housing, hotels, and senior housing also contributed positively to the Fund's relative performance.

In terms of allocation, the Fund was hurt by its average underweight in offices, which continued to recover from COVID-era weakness. Overweights in regional malls, apartments, and data centers, together with an underweight in net lease, further detracted from the Fund's performance. An average overweight in senior housing helped results, as did an underweight in the lab/outpatient category.

Percentages in parentheses are based on the Fund's net assets as of December 31, 2025.

Stocks may decline in value. Any fund that concentrates in a particular segment of the market will generally be more volatile than a fund that invests more broadly. There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including REITS. These risks include credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. This Fund is non-diversified and can take larger positions in fewer issues, increasing its potential risk. Bond investments are subject to interest-rate, credit, liquidity, and market risks to varying degrees. When interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall. Credit risk refers to the ability of an issuer to make timely payments of principal and interest. Dividends are not guaranteed. The Fund may lend securities to approved institutions. Please read the prospectus for details.
