How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Class C shares of the Fund returned 7.44% (unadjusted for sales charges) for the period ended December 31, 2025. The Fund's broad-based index, the MSCI World Index, returned 21.09% for the same period, while the Fund's additional, more narrowly based index, the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Index, returned 9.58%.

Individual stock selection contributed to performance relative to the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Index, but the benefit was largely offset by a negative impact from sector allocations.

With respect to the former, the Fund's holdings outpaced the corresponding benchmark components by the widest margin in Americas healthcare. An overweight in Healthcare Realty Trust, Inc. (0.8%) and a zero weighting in Alexandria Real Estate Equities, Inc., one of the worst performing stocks in the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Index in 2025, were the leading contributors to the Fund's performance. The industrials category was a further area of strength, primarily due to zero weightings or underweights in several stocks that lagged. Stock selection in Japan and Canada also contributed to the Fund's relative performance, as did selection in Europe offices.

On the other hand, the Fund underperformed in the net lease category due to overweights in the lagging stocks Essential Properties Real Estate Trust, Inc. (1.5%) and Vinci Properties, Inc.* The Fund was also hurt by a zero weighting in Australia-based Charter Hall Group and an overweight in UNITE Group PLC (0.4%) in the United Kingdom.

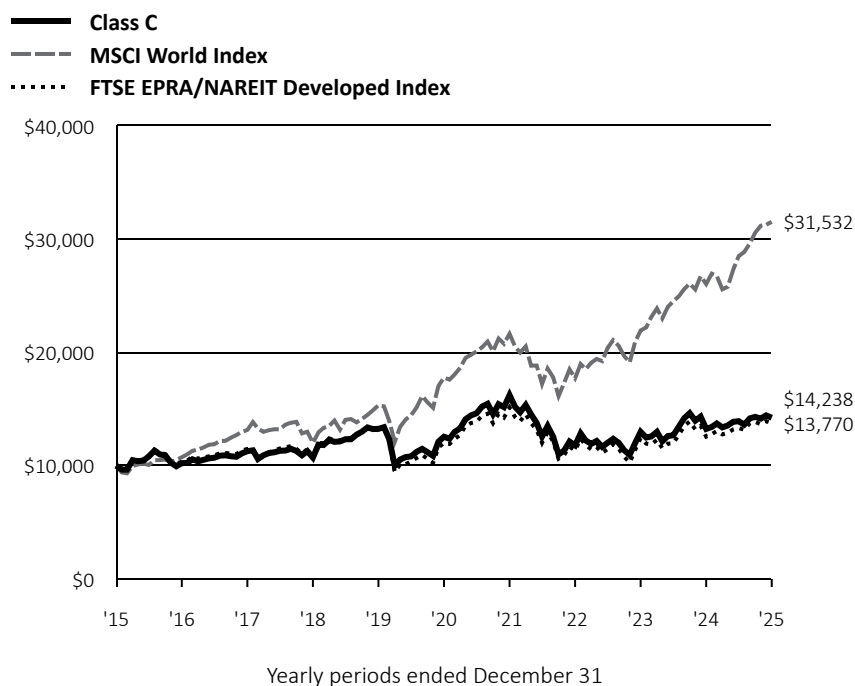

In terms of allocation, the Fund was hurt by its average underweights in the Americas net lease and Americas offices categories, as well as its average overweights in Americas residential and Americas data centers. On the positive side, an overweight in Europe retail REITs contributed.

Percentages in parentheses are based on the Fund's net assets as of December 31, 2025.

* Not held at December 31, 2025.

Fund Performance

Cumulative Growth of an Assumed $10,000 Investment

MSCI World Index captures large and mid-cap representation across Developed Markets countries. The index covers approximately 85% of the free float-adjusted market capitalization in each country.

The MSCI World Index is a required broad-based index that represents the fund's overall equity market.

FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Index is designed to track the performance of listed real estate companies and REITs worldwide. By making the index constituents free-float adjusted, liquidity, size and revenue screened, the series is suitable for use as the basis for investment products, such as derivatives and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs).

The FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Index is a more narrowly based index that reflects the market sector in which the fund invests.

Index returns do not reflect any fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly into an index.

Stocks may decline in value. Any fund that concentrates in a particular segment of the market will generally be more volatile than a fund that invests more broadly. There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including REITS. These risks include credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. Investing in foreign securities presents certain risks, such as currency fluctuations, political and economic changes, and market risks. Emerging markets tend to be more volatile and less liquid than the markets of more mature economies, and generally have less diverse and less mature economic structures and less stable political systems than those of developed countries. The Fund may lend securities to approved institutions. Please read the prospectus for details.
