How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Class A shares of the Fund returned 11.15% for the period ended December 31, 2024. The Fund's broad-based index, the Russell 3000® Index, returned 23.81% for the same period, while the Fund's additional, more narrowly based index, the Russell 2000® Index, returned 11.54%.

The difference in performance between the Fund and the Russell 2000® Index was driven by transaction costs and Fund expenses. The Fund periodically invested in equity index futures in order to keep the portfolio's positioning in line with that of the index. This strategy had a neutral impact on results.

U.S. small-cap stocks recorded a healthy gain in 2024. Although the category lagged the broader market at a time in which a narrow group of mega-cap technology companies dominated performance, it nonetheless benefited from the backdrop of positive economic growth and falling interest rates. However, a sharp sell-off in December dampened full-year returns considerably.

The growth style outperformed value for the second consecutive calendar year. The Russell 2000 Growth Index posted a robust gain of 15.15% in 2024, well ahead of the 8.05% return for the Russell 2000 Value Index.

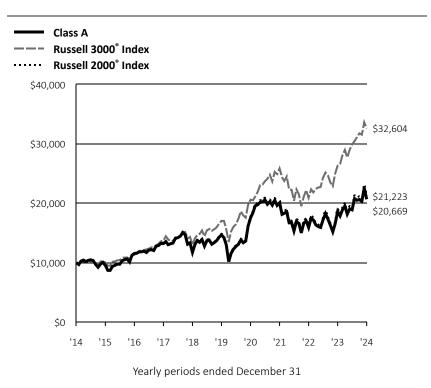

Ten of the 11 sectors in the Russell 2000® Index gained ground on the year, with energy being the sole exception. The information technology sector led the way with a total return above 25%, and consumer staples followed closely behind. Industrials, financials, and communications services also outpaced the index. Consumer discretionary, real estate, utilities, materials, and health care, while positive in absolute terms, underperformed. At the individual stock level, the leading contributors were Super Micro Computer, Inc.,* FTAI Aviation Ltd. (0.5%), and Sprouts Farmers Markets, Inc. (0.5%), followed by Microstrategy, Inc.* and Carvana Co.* Cytokinetics, Inc. (0.1%), StoneCo Ltd. (0.3%), and Atkore Inc. (0.1%) were the largest detractors. (Contribution and detraction incorporate both a stock's total return and its weighting in the index.)

Percentages in parentheses are based on the Fund's net assets as of December 31, 2024.

Fund Performance

Cumulative Growth of an Assumed $10,000 Investment

Russell 3000® Index measures the performance of the largest 3,000 U.S. companies representing approximately 96% of the investable U.S. equity market.

The Russell 3000° Index is a broad-based index that represents the fund's overall equity market. It replaces the Russell 2000° Index as the Fund's broad-based index in compliance with updated regulatory requirements.

Russell 2000® Index measures the performance of the small-cap segment of the US equity universe. The Russell 2000® Index is a subset of the Russell 3000® Index representing approximately 7% of the total market capitalization of that index, as of the most recent reconstitution. It includes approximately 2,000 of the smallest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership. The Russell 2000® Index is constructed to provide a comprehensive and unbiased small-cap barometer and is completely reconstituted annually to ensure larger stocks do not distort the performance and characteristics of the true small-cap opportunity set.

The Russell 2000® Index is a more narrowly based index that reflects the market sector in which the fund invests.

Index returns do not reflect any fees or expenses and it is not possible to invest directly into an index.
