

2023 Xtrackers ETF Capital Gains

On the following pages is a list of 2023 capital gains for the Xtrackers ETFs, payable to shareholders as of the dates indicated. Please keep in mind the following:

- _ Short-term and long-term capital gains are taxed at different rates. Please consult a tax advisor regarding your specific tax situation.
- _ Amounts shown are "per share". To calculate your capital gain distribution, multiply the per-share amounts in the chart by the amount of shares you own. Your final capital gain distribution will be based on the number of shares you own on the fund's record date.
- _ Prospective investors should consider purchasing shares after the ex-date in order to avoid a tax liability on gains their shares did not earn.

Per-share amounts are based on the estimated number of shares outstanding on the funds' record date.

Note that any tax or legal information presented is merely a summary of our understanding and interpretation of some of the current tax laws and regulations and is not exhaustive. Consult your legal or tax counsel for advice and information concerning your particular situation. Neither DWS nor any of its representatives may give tax or legal advice.

Important risk information

Investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal. Incorporation of ESG criteria in the fund's investment strategy does not guarantee a return or protect against a loss, limits the types and number of investment opportunities available to the fund and, as a result, the fund may underperform other funds that do not have an ESG focus. Stocks may decline in value. Bond investments are subject to interest-rate, credit, liquidity and market risks to varying degrees. When interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall. Foreign investing involves greater and different risks than investing in U.S. companies, including currency fluctuations, less liquidity, less developed or less efficient trading markets, lack of comprehensive company information, political instability and differing auditing and legal standards. Emerging markets tend to be more volatile than the markets of more mature economies, and generally have less diverse and less mature economic structures and less stable political systems than those of developed countries. Funds investing in a single industry, country or in a limited geographic region generally are more volatile than more diversified funds. War, terrorism, sanctions, economic uncertainty, trade disputes, public health crises and related geopolitical events have led and, in the future, may lead to significant disruptions in U.S. and world economies and markets, which may lead to increased market volatility and may have significant adverse effects on the fund and its investments. Uncertainties in the Chinese tax rules governing taxation of income and gains from investments in A-shares could result in unexpected tax liabilities for the Fund which may reduce Fund returns. Any reduction or elimination of access to A-shares will have a material adverse effect on the ability of the fund to achieve its investment objective. Special risks associated with investments in Chinese companies include exposure to currency fluctuations, less liquidity, less developed or less efficient trading markets, lack of comprehensive company information, political instability and differing auditing and legal standards the nature and extent of intervention by the Chinese government in the Chinese securities markets, and the potential unavailability of A shares. Performance of a Fund may diverge from that of an Underlying Index due to operating expenses, transaction costs, cash flows, use of sampling strategies or operational inefficiencies. There are additional risks associated with investing in high-yield bonds, aggressive growth stocks, non-diversified/concentrated funds and small- and mid-cap stocks which are more fully explained in the prospectuses, as applicable. An investment in any Fund should be considered only as a supplement to a complete investment program for those investors willing to accept the risks associated with that fund. Please read the prospectus for more information.
